The term “deposit of money” means the unpaid balance, including interest thereon, of funds received by a deposit institution or a bank in the normal course of receiving cash deposits from the public for investment, account transaction and safe-keeping purposes, where the obligation of the deposit institution or bank to repay is evidenced by a credit to the depositor’s account, by a deposit certificate or by any other document issued by the deposit institution or bank.

A deposit of money does not include

- (2) funds used to acquire shares or equity securities;
- (3) funds repayable, in the case of a winding-up, at a rank subordinate to other ordinary due debts of the deposit institution or bank;

2. In addition to the provisions in the first paragraph of section 1, the funds referred to in that paragraph constitute a deposit of money within the meaning of the Act and this Regulation where the document evidencing the obligation of the deposit institution or bank to repay or to pay explicitly bears the name of the person entitled, as of the date of issue of the document, to payment or repayment of the funds received.

Where the document is assigned, the name of the assignor, the name of any assignee and the terms of assignment must be noted in the records of the deposit institution or bank.

The first paragraph does not apply where the obligation to repay or to pay is evidenced by a draft, a certified cheque, a letter of credit paid in advance or a money order.

(1) where the funds are remitted to a branch or agent of the depository, the deposit is deemed to be made at the place where such branch or agent received the funds;

(1.1) where the funds are remitted by technological means, including through an automated teller machine, the deposit is deemed to be made at the place of business of the depository, branch or agent of the depository that has received the funds;
